

THE Carolina Gazette.

From SATURDAY February 2d, to MONDAY February 11th, 1751.

LONDON, October 13.

A Person of learning and distinction has received lately an account from a friend of his settled at Cadiz, that about the beginning of last month certain workmen employed in repairing the coast of Verona, about three miles from that city, had dug up a most excellent monument of antiquity. It's a very beautiful copper statue, which, independent of the pedestal, measures in height 16 feet 7 inches, representing Hercules, holding in his right hand the head of Geryon, an ancient Spanish monarch, the corpse lying under the conqueror's feet, and with his left bristling a lion. On the pedestal is the following inscription, Aleides devictis Geryone Gadium Fundator; that is, Hercules having overcome Geryon, became the founder of Cadiz. On the right side are these words, L. Aelio Cons. and upon the left Adrianus P. C. which implies that Adrian caused this statue to be erected, when Lucius Aelius was consul. It appears that this Lucius Aelius Verus Cæjonius (so his name is at large) died A. D. 138. which in some measure shews the time when this statue was set up.

Petersbourg, Oct. 1. It is generally reported, that there is a new negotiation begun with the court of Great-Britain, which occasions the sending frequent couriers to Hanover.

Madrid, Oct. 6. Mr. Keene, minister plenipotentiary from the king of Great-Britain, has lately made representations to the ministers of this court, concerning the behaviour of our guarda costas in America, which, he assured them, not only visited all the English ships they met with in those Parts, but had taken some which were not concerned in any contraband trade. The king, being informed of these complaints, has order'd the affair to be examin'd into, and that in the mean time the respective governors in those countries may be made acquainted, that it is his majesty's intention, that they should conform exactly to the tenor of the treaties, and that the guarda costas should be ordered to do nothing that might give any just cause for complaint, the king having no other design but to prevent the carrying on of clandestine and unlawful trade within his dominions.

Turin, Oct. 14. Mr. Verelst, envoy extraordinary from the States-General, makes himself much esteem'd in this court. He has had the honour to accompany the king several times a hunting, and was obligingly told by his majesty, that he might take that diversion when he pleased. Deputies are arrived here from the Vaudois Protestants, who have been to compliment this minister upon his arrival in this country, and to pray him to promote the interest of their religion. He received them with great affability, and promised to use his good offices in their favour.

Berlin, Oct. 10. The establishment of the trading company at Embden takes up the whole attention of the ministry, who seem to be altogether employed in concerting the properest measures for securing the success thereof.

Berlin, Oct. 17. Besides the company form'd at Embden, another will be established at Stetin; and 'tis assured that a very rich merchant has offered to equip at his own expence a ship to send to Canton in China, provided certain conditions which he demands are granted him: But 'tis not yet known whether this offer will be accepted.

Brussels, Oct. 16. 'Tis strongly reported, that, in order to reap the advantage which might be procured from the port of Ostend, a project is on the carpet for making it a free port.

Cologne, Oct. 16. Of all the visits which the king of Great-Britain has made to his Electoral Dominions since he came to the English throne, that this year will acquire him the greatest honour. His majesty has employ'd himself in laying the foundation of a solid negotiation for the election of a king of the Romans, and conducted it with so much ability and honour, that we flatter ourselves it is near being brought to maturity. The Patriot sentiments of the electors of Mentz and Triers have been long known, and they are such as no considerations either in time of peace or war could ever alter. The last treaty concluded at Hanover with the Elector of Bavaria, the journey of Sir Charles Hanbury Williams to Warsaw, and the appearance of a minister of merit at the court of Bonn, have made the votes of Cologne, Bavaria, and Saxony, quite correspondent with those of Mentz, Triers, Bohemia, and Hanover, so that it is very natural to conclude that the peace of Germany is secured; and that there is no more to be done but to fix upon the manner, time, and place to finish this great work, all which are to be the business of the approaching winter.

Hague, Oct. 29. Admiral Anson and lord Delawar arrived here this morning, and intend to stay till they receive advice that the king is set out from Hanover, which it's very likely may be the 9th or 10th of next month.

Paris, Oct. 30. We are getting ready in the arsenal of this city a fine train of artillery, among which we reckon 26 mortars of a new invention, in order to send it down to Brest, from whence it is to be transported to our American colonies.

Newcastle, Oct. 20. We are credibly informed from Houghton le Spring, that last week a young lady of great beauty, and a fortune of 2000*l.* (who had been courted by several gentlemen) made her escape out of a window in that village, at midnight, and run away with a livery servant of that neighbourhood; but as they thought they could not safely accomplish their intentions of marriage in any of the adjacent parishes, they got a post-chaise, and rode directly to London for that purpose, which they reached in about 30 hours, and there married.

London, Oct. 27. We have advice from Rome, that the Pope has issued an ordinance against all games at cards without any exception, and forbids the vending of cards in any place under his temporal jurisdiction; which order is enforced by heavy fines, and corporal punishment too in some cases. They observe, that though this ordinance is very good in itself, and grounded on judicious motives, it is very prejudicial to part of the publick.—And so would the suppressing of brothels prove a great detriment to one part of the community, and yet that is no argument why that and every other vice should not be suppressed, as far as the magistrate is able to do it.

SNUFF the whole Paper or half going to Bed; you will seldom sneeze till you rise in the Morning: A second Dose is not to be taken till Four, Five, or six Days after the first; and, instead of occasioning any Cold to be taken, it carries off the Humour that occasions Colds, and brings the Blood to support the Part: Sometimes it works off sharp Waters, sometimes Corruption and Blood, sometimes like Size or Glue: It draws off all Phlegm, and other Matter, from the Stomach. There is no Occasion to be afraid of a little Blood, for it is Part of the Cure. As you see the foul Matter brought away, it is a better Proof than ever was seen before, and gives a true Demonstration of its Efficacy. The Nose being the proper Channel to carry it off, the sore Nose will cease after the Distemper goes off. Sometimes One, Two, Three Papers, or more must be taken, as yourself may see the Case requires. There is no Occasion to keep from Business or Within-doors, or to alter your Diet for its Working. Upon Occasion it may be taken any Time of the Day; only you are to refrain blowing the Nose for some Hours.
